>Paul Greenwood has asked me to reply on behalf of IFRRO to your October 1 >letter. I am a member of IFRRO's Latin America Committee, with >responsibility for assisting the formation of an RRO in Chile.

>There is some work now being done on this, and you will be contacted soon by >Pablo Canovas-Silva, who is advising Camara Chilena del Libro.

>My organization, which is based in Toronto, has licensing schemes with >Canadian universities and libraries. These schemes allow the copying of >articles by students and professors, as well as copying for inter-library >loan and document delivery. Payment is calculated on an annual fee paid by >the university for each student, with additional fees for copying done to >produce course materials that are sold to students, and for supplying copies >of articles to people outside the universities. For a number of reasons, a >similar type of licence probably wouldn't be appropriate in Chile, but I can >provide any further information you want.

>As far as having an RRO in Chile is concerned, I suggest that you talk to >Mr. Canovas-Silva, who is arranging a seminar in Santiago on November 27, at >which several IFRRO representatives will be speaking.
